Besides, the tax that should be collected on such investments would provide a handsome revenue for the state.

By all means let's have this sort of and threaten to withdraw from the law in the new commonwealth.

THE Oklahoma City boosters said their reception in Ada was the most picturesque and the most hearty on the trip. They said "Ada must be a live town." And those Oklahoma City fellows know.

Bravo! Ada's 25,000 Club. It did splendidly in entertaining the Oklahoma City fellows. Just wait till the headquarters are fitted up, then it can entertain in sure enough fashion. The organization of this club fills a long felt want and marks a long stride of progress for the growing city.

It was not altogether a trades ex cursion. There were politicians in the bunch. Among the advertising novelties distributed by the Oklahoma City party were some cards of aspirants for state offices. But it's proper that good business and good politics should mingle. They are vitally related the one to the other. And, it may be remarked, the honest man who does well looking after his own business can be safely entrusted with such of the public's business as he will undertake.

Political Meeting at "Tish."

Judge J. A. Baker, candidate for district judge, was in Ada this morning on his way to Atoka. He was in Tishomingo last night and reports a very important political meeting there. It was the occasion of W. H. Murray's return from the constitutional convention, and a great ovation was given him. Before his arrival he had been solicited to make the race for the state legislature, and last night he formally made his announcement that he would do so. A general celebration and good time was held in honor of his home coming, a lunch and smoker was held. Mr. Murray made the principal speech of the evening, and short speeches were made by Geo. Henshaw, candidate for railroad commissioner, and Mr. Baker.

Maxwell News.

The weather has faired up and the farmers have gone to their work again, and the birds are singing as though we had spring time once more. Farming has been delayed to some extent on account of bad weather, but prospects now look favorable.

The farmers are complaining considerably about the green bugs killing their oats and the candidates tramping their corn all down, so be careful Mr. Candidate, and try to catch the farmer at the end of his row.

Dr. Pratt and Prof. White went fishing last night and report having a good time, but say they didn't catch anything but two suckers.

John Ritter lost his crib of corn of about 300 bushels by fire. Sparks from house are supposed to have been the cause.

THE PROPERTY OF THE PARTY OF TH OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

Much has been heard of late con- smashed. But the peers, more farcerning the fight which is being made seeing that he, saved themselves by on the upper branch of the British giving in in the nick of time. With all parliament. The house of lords has their obstinacy, folly and prejudice, been subjected to the severest criticithey have proved time and again that cism and it has been declared that they possess the political instinct this body of titled gentlemen has which tells them when they must quite outlived its usefulness and that either give way or go under. the government would be better off without its obstructive and perversive ity in the house of lords has been overlegislation. The proposal to do away whelming in magnitude. Their number with the house of lords and the pro- of avowed liberals among their 600 posal to reform it, are neither of them | members is only about 45. That is new. Indeed, many proposals to reform it have emanated from peers they cannot be made to fit into any themselves. The impression prevails, form of representative government however, that if the question could be which is supposed to reflect the politsubmitted to the plebiscite, the pro- ical views of the majority of the peoposal to abolish the hereditary prin- ple for the time being. Common folks ciple altogether would be negatived change their opinions. They are always on one side. immense number of persons who When the conservative party is in yield to none in the value which they power they take things easy and pass attach to the principle of popular rep- every measure that is sent up to them.

And yet any stranger coming to England at present would be justified in supposing the peers could not last another month. Editorial writers are pouring forth columns of denunciation on the devoted and coroneted heads of the members of the upper house. Platform orators thunder against them menacingly. Their sins of omission and commission are ruthlessly exposed. They are declared with entire truth to be the greatest obstacles to legislative reforms in the land. As the custodians of tremendous political power their like is found nowhere else in the civilized world. No other European nation possesses a purely hereditary second chamber whose members are responsible to none but themselves. No British colony would tolerate such a system. . Their continued existence is a living monument to their countrymen's hatred of logic, to their fondness for anachronism, to their love of anomaly, to their ingrained and inveterate habit of putting up with things.

Just think, several millions of Britons dwelling in London, Manchester, Birmingham, Glasgow, and where not, after years of thinking about it, and talking about it, and arguing about it, come to a decision that certain political proposals shall become law. They spend a lot of time, energy and money in making that decision of theirs known to all men. Then at more trouble and expense they send representatives to the house of commons to give effect to their decision. After much more time and trouble and argument the house of commons puts it upon record that these political proposals shall become law. Then two or three hundred peers who are invested with legislative powers solely and simply because they are the sons of their fathers stroll down to West minster between tea time and dinner time and vote that they shan't become a law. And they don't.

From the millions whose will has been thwarted there ascends a prodigious howl of righteous indignation. This thing has got to stop, they shriek. The peers must be deprived of their power to say "no" to the sovereign heard a quarter of a mile away above people. While all this hubbub is going the road of raging waters in the on around them the equanimity of the blackness of a stormy night, a herd goble hereditary legislators remains of 67 steers, penned in a lot surroundundisturbed. Could Not Afford to Take Gloves and Give Tip Required.

Mrs. Potter Palmer while entertaining the National Civic Federation told an amusing story about country house tipping.

"You know," she said, "how huge these tips are, how many servants must be remembered, how, indeed, some people are obliged to refuse to visit large country houses because they can't afford the expense. Well, there is a story in this line about the famous Jonas Hanway. As Hanway was leaving the country house of a duke a string of servants waylaid

"'Sir,' said one, 'your overcoat.' And Hanway put on the overcoat and gave the man a sovereign.

"'Your umbrella, sir,' said another. And taking the umbrella Hanway surrendered another sovereign.

'Your hat, sir.' Another sovereign. "'Sir, your gloves.'

"'Why, friend,' says Hanway, 'you may keep the gloves. They are not worth a sovereign."

The Only Way to Keep Young is to Keep One's Heart Young.

"No woman is worth looking at after 40, or worth talking to before," is a cynical saying which has not much of the proverbial grain of truth in it, for it certainly is a fact that in society to-day the women who have the greatest success are the more or less matured ones who have realized that, since grow old we must, the least we can all do is to grow old intelligently. "It is a man's own fault-it is from want of use-if his mind grows torpid in old age," said Dr. Johnson, and there is no reason why when we feel ourselves no longer of the crowd we should not still derive a certain mild pleasure from looking on at it from the outside. The only really old people are the ones who have never had any strong interests in life, who have never felt anything, done anything, or been anything in particular. The only possible way to keep young is to keep one's heart young; the only preventive to old age a boundless capacity for sympathy, the possession of which will prove in the long run far more efficacious in its youth-prolonging qualities than the most advertised Methuselah mixture or the latest bacteriological discovery claiming to destroy the bacilus of antediluvianism. -Pictorial Review.

Judge J. A. Baker, candidate for district judge, was in Ada this morning on his way to Atoka. He was in Tishomingo last night and reports a very important political meeting there. It was the occasion of W. H. Murray's return from the constitutional convention, and a great ovation was given him. Before his arrival he had been solicited to make the race for the state legislature, and last night he formally made his announcement that he would do so. A general celebration and good time was held in honor of his home coming, a lunch and smoker was held, Mr. Murray made the principal speech of the evening, and short speeches were made by Geo. Henshaw, candidate for railroad commissioner, and Mr. Baker.

Maxwell News.

The weather has faired up and the farmers have gone to their work again and the birds are singing as though we had spring time once more. Farming has been delayed to some extent on account of bad weather, but prospects now look favorable.

The farmers are complaining considerably about the green bugs killing their oats and the candidates tramping their corn all down, so be careful Mr. Candidate, and try to catch the farmer at the end of his row.

Dr. Pratt and Prof. White went fishing last night and report having a good time, but say they didn't catch anything but two suckers.

John Ritter lost his crib of corn of about 300 bushels by fire. Sparks from house are supposed to have been the cause.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how a nall, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than be makes and will finally have no bruk account.

Big Attraction for the Ada Folks this Week.

'At full blast" is what describes it Tonight makes the fourth night the carnival company has been in Ada and each day the interest seems to grow The crowds seem larger, and mcreased fun and excitement is in evidence each

All their shows are clean and moral and there is no attraction that is not all right for anyone to attend. The electric theatre and wild west shows are exceptionally good, but all the attractions are worth seeing.

The exceptional good brass band of the company is still entertaining the

For the United States Senate from the Oklahoma side of the state, subject to the decision of the Democratic primaries on May 23, 1907.

SOMETHING OKLAHOMA WILL NEED.

Texas has just passed a law so ra-field and of such sweetping importance as to arrived special attention from the meanance would-in tact, from the whole tinancial world. And with reason, this interest, because the pas-sage of the measure probably marks a new epoch in the handling of insurance funds

Very briefly stated, the law requires life insurance companies to invest 75 per cent of the reserve on Texas policies in Texas securities.

This investment is limited to state, county, manieipal and school district bonds, mortgages on unincumbered bonds, mortgages on unincurvered real estate, the stock of any naturnal or state bank, under the restriction that insurance companies shall not own more than 40 per cent of any one bank; the first mortgage bonds of any solvent dividend-paying corporation incorporated under the laws of this state; loans to policy holders and in not more than the first legislature of the state of having a population of more than 25,-000. In the event they can not invest the required amount in these ways they may, on the authority of the insurance commissioner, invest in United States

The sum thus required to be invested the enormous, by some calculated to amount to $75,000,000 during the next two years. In case it can be shown that the state securities specified can not be found in sufficient quantity the insurance commissioner is clothed with the discretion to relieve companies. the discretion to relieve companies from the rigid requirements.

The big companies made a desperate fight against the passage of the law, and threaten to withdraw from the

Besides, the tax that should be collected on such investments would provide a handsome revenue for the state.

By all means let's have this sort of a laws in the new commonwealth.

THE Oklahoma City boosters said heir reception in Ada was the most picturesque and the most hearty on the trip. They said "Ada must be a live town." And those Oklahoma City fellows know.

BRAVO! Ada's 25,000 Club. It did splendidly in entertaining the Oklahoma City fellows. Just wait till the headquarters are fitted up, then it can entertain in sure enough fashion. organization of this club fills a long felt want and marks a long stride of progress for the growing city.

Ir was not altogether a trades ex cursion. There were politicians in the banch. Among the advertising novelties distributed by the Oklahoma City party were some cards of aspirants for state offices. But it's proper that good business and good politics should mingle. They are vitally related the one to the other. And, it may be remarked, the honest man who does well looking after his own business can be safely entrusted with such of the public's business as he will undertake.

It was the occasion of W. H. Murray's return from the constitutional convention, and a great ovation was given him. Before his arrival he had been solicited to make the race for the state legislature, and last night he formally made his announcement that he would do so. A general celebration and good time was held in honor of his home coming, a lunch and smoker was held. Mr. Murray made the principal speech of the evening, and short speeches were made by Gco. Henshaw, candifor railroad commissioner, and Mr. Baker.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts whether large or small, are not approved by the comparoller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that he. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account in the contract of the country of the count is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

LORDS IN LIGHT FOR LIFE

Much has been heard of late concerning the fight which is being made on the upper branch of the British parliament. The house of lords has been subjected to the severest criticism and it has been declared that the heart of third grantings has they have proved time and again that they better off the government would be better off without its obstructive and preventive legislation. The proposal to do away with the house of lorde and away with the house of lorde and away when they have proved time and again that they possess the political instinct which tolls then when they must either give way or go under. Since 1885 the conservative major with the house of lorde and away when they have better the proposal to do away when they have better the proposal to do away when they have better the proposal to do away when they have better they have better they have proved time and again that they possess the political instinct they have proved time and again that they proved time and again they proved time with the house of lords and the pro-posal to reform it are neither of them new Indeed many proposals to re-firm it have emainted from peers possi to abouse the nerectivity state cliple altocather would be negatived by an overwhelming majority and that this migority would comprise an immens number of persons who yield to none in the value which they attach to the principle of popular repulseration. resentation

And yet any strunger coming to England at puse it would be justified in supposing the peers could not last another month. Editorial waters we pour ng forth columns of denuiciti u on the devoted and coroneted he ds of the members of the upper house. Plus form orators thuider against them meracinals. Their sins of omission and commission are multilessiver posed. BEAUTY AND ITS AGE.

"No woman is worth looking at after 40, or worth talking to before is a cynical saying which has not much of the proverbial grain of truth in it for it certainly is a fact that in society to-day the women who have the greatest success are the more or the greatest success are the more or less matured ones who have realized that since grow old we must, the least we can all do is to grow old intelligently 'It is a mans own fault—it is from want of use—if his fault—it is from want of use—if his mind grows torpid in old nge," said Dr Johnson, and there is no reason why when we feel ourselves no long er of the crowd we should not still derive a certain mild pleasure from looking on at it from the outside The only really old people are the ones who have never had any strong interests in life who have never feit anything done anything or been any anything done anything or been any-thing in particular. THE SUNFLOWER AND QUININE.

Discovery Made That Plant Yields a Splendid Febrifuge.

An eminent Spanish professor has made the discovery that the sunflow er yields a splendid febrifuge that can be used as a substitute for quinine More than ten years ago Moncorvo reported to the Therapeutical society of Paris with reference to the same subject Accordingly the sunflower should not only by its growing exert great fever dispelling effect but also yield a product which is used advantageously in all fevers

The common sunflower is an Amer

The Russian persantry seem to be convinced that the plant possesses properties against fever and fover patients sleep upon a bed made of sun flower leaves and also cover them selves with them. This use has recently induced a Russian physician to experiment with a coloring matter prepared from sunflower leaves and it is stated that he has had good results with the coloring matter and with all coholic extricts from the flower and haves. With 100 children from one mouth to 12 years old he has in the majority of cases effected as speedy a cure as otherwise with quinine

Life of Our Coal Fields.

If the rate of consumption of 1905 ere maintained indefinitely, without change, our coal would last approxi-mately 4000 years, but if the con-stantly increasing rate which dask marked the consumption during the past 90 years be maintained our coal will practically be exhausted within 100 years

It does not seem probable that the trate of increased consumption will be affected materially for a great many years to come, and hence the estimate of 100 years will be nearer the truth than 4,000 years. The real life of our coal fields probably will be somewhere between these extremes, and is seems probable that it may be about
